

11/16/16 – Aerial Photography

When it comes to selling a property or recording once in a lifetime events, most consider hiring a professional photographer or videographer. But in this day and age, some people go one step further... So if you are looking for a revolutionary visual experience, Aerial Photography might just be your answer.

Aerial Photography is owned by Sandy Schupper, a Vietnam veteran who specializes in studio quality video and still photography. But there's one catch- the company uses drones!

Aerial Photography is a great option for those who need to sell real estate because they can provide video walkthroughs of a property and even the interior of a building. That's right! They are so precise with flying their drones that they can navigate through the tight spaces of a home or business. For the same reason, they can also expertly film a wedding or sports event whether it is indoors or outdoors.

Their videos are extremely high quality, shot in Ultra HD up to 4K with up to 120 frames-per-second and their photographs are shot with at least 12 megapixels. And don't worry, they uphold all the federal regulations!
